

Need Skilled Labor For Dress Factory

New Industry to Locate Here If Workers Are Available, Chamber of Commerce Committee and Employment Service Director Announce; Decision on Tuesday

Through the efforts of the new industries committee of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce and Truman B. Thomson, director of the Gettysburg office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service, Gettysburg stands to gain a new industry in the immediate future if enough skilled textile workers can be found here to form a nucleus of 50 employees for the new concern.

The Roselle Flocks Manufacturing company, Inc., 1350 Broadway, New York city, will bring machinery here immediately and begin the manufacture of women's cotton dresses if enough labor trained in that type of work can be found in this section.

Pleased With Location

"The New York concern likes the location immediately available for their plant and likes the town," Robert E. Berkheimer, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said this morning "and the final outcome of the whole effort now depends entirely upon the availability of labor here."

This morning the Gettysburg office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service announced that "an employer" will interview all persons who have had experience operating sewing machines, etc., in the manufacture of women's cotton dresses at the employment service office at 100 York street, on Tuesday morning.

"All persons with this type of experience who are interested in securing regular employment in Gettysburg are requested to report to the York street office at that time," the announcement concluded. Further information on the project is available for interested persons who write the office or telephone 220.

Approve Oyler Building

Irving Mintz, vice president of Roselle Flocks Manufacturing company, Inc., and A. A. Morgenthau, Jr., manager of the company's Greencastle, Pa., factory, have been in Gettysburg to handle arrangements for the new plant here and have approved the Oyler building at North Stratton and East Railroad streets as a location for the plant, but have indicated their company may become interested in purchasing a building or a factory site here later. Arrangements already have been made for improvements at the Oyler building in preparation for the opening of the new factory.

If sufficient labor is shown to be available by Tuesday, the concern will send machinery and equipment here at once and will be ready for operation very soon, it was stated today.

SPECIAL MARTIN LUTHER SESSION HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Thanksgiving Turkeys Bring 35c. lb Dressed

A special Thanksgiving session of market will be held at the Farmers' market house next Wednesday morning while regular Tuesday and Thursday sessions will be omitted, it was announced this morning at the market house. The regular Saturday session will be held next week.

Thursday sessions of market will be omitted until next spring and until further announcement the market house will be open on Tuesday and Saturday mornings only.

Orders were being taken this morning for dressing turkeys for delivery on Wednesday morning at 35 cents a pound. Dressed ducks were selling at 30 cents and dressed young and old chickens sold at 30 and 35 cents a pound.

The "fixins" for the Thanksgiving turkey dinner also are moderately priced. Potatoes sold at most stands at 30 cents a bushel. Sweet potatoes were marked 10 cents for fruit box full. Sauerkraut brought 10 cents a pint and 20 cents a quart. Apple prices ranged upwards from 75 cents a bushel to a top of $1.50 for big, top grade fruit in a few varieties.

Eggs ranged from 35 to 38 cents a dozen and butter brought 30 cents a pound.

Pork prices were unchanged today.

Plan District S.S. Visits in December

A meeting of the First District Council of the Adams County Sunday School association was held Friday evening at the Y.W.C.A. building, center square. The Rev. Ralph Baker, president, presided.

The meeting opened with scripture reading by the Rev. Dwight F. Putman and was followed by prayer by the Rev. Mr. Baker. During the business meetings it was decided to have district school visits made during December. It was also decided to omit the December meeting, the next meeting being scheduled to be held at the "Y" on January 10 at 7 p. m.

Those attending in addition to the Revs. Mr. Baker and Putman were H. T. Baker, Mrs. Earl Bowman, Miss Emma Howard, Mrs. M. R. Remmel and Thomas J. Winebrenner.

PROBE WHEAT THEFT

State motor police of the Gettysburg detail are investigating the theft of 20 bushels of wheat from the barn on the W. F. Redding farm, Emmitsburg road, Gettysburg R. 2. The wheat was taken the night of November 21 and the loss was reported to the motor police substation.

Edward Weikerts Will Mark 57th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weikert will celebrate the fifty-seventh anniversary of their wedding day on Monday at their home at Two Taverns with an open house for their friends and a visit from each of their children.

The couple was married on Thanksgiving Day in 1883 and engaged in farming until nine years ago when they retired and moved to Two Taverns.

George L. Baugher Lists Expense of $707

George L. Baugher, Aspers, who was elected to Adams county's only seat in the lower house of the state Legislature at Harrisburg on November 5, filed his election expense account in the office of the county commissioners Friday afternoon showing total costs of $707.20. He is the first candidate to report on campaign costs within the 30-day period allowed.

He reports a $300 assessment paid to the county democratic committee; $150 spent for traveling expenses and the remainder of the total for advertising of various sorts. He lists no contributions.

Universal Bible Sunday Planned for December 8

The executive committee of the Gettysburg Bible society held a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. building Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Five of the eight members were present. Mrs. H. E. Berkey, the president, presided.

Plans were made for the observance of Universal Bible Sunday on December 8.

It is hoped that all churches represented by the committee, as well as other congregations of the community, will participate by presenting programs that emphasize the great value of the Bible and its teachings, as being the best solution of the world's present chaotic condition.

The Gettysburg society was organized in November, 1846, and now is 94 years old. It is suggested that a free-will offering from each co-operating congregation would be an acceptable birthday gift to the work of the American Bible society, of which the local society is an auxiliary.

Since most of the great European Bible societies are unable to function as formerly, because of war conditions, the opportunity and financial responsibility of the American society have been more than doubled, it was reported Friday.

Head of Soroptimists To Speak Here Monday

At a joint meeting with the Gettysburg Rotary and Lions clubs, members of the Soroptimist club of Gettysburg with guests from York, Harrisburg, Hanover and Philadelphia will celebrate the second anniversary of the founding of the local women's service organization with a banquet on Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Blue Parrot tea room.

The principal speaker will be Jean Bennett, Washington, D. C., president of the American Federation of Soroptimist clubs. There will be special music and group singing. A turkey dinner will be served.

Miss Mary Ramer, president of the celebrating club since its organization, will preside during the evening. The program is to be informal.

Three Vessels Torpedoed 400 Miles Off Irish Coast

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Radio messages picked up by Mackay radio said today that two British ships and a Swedish freighter had been torpedoed about 400 miles off the Irish coast in an area known to be infested with German U-boats.

They were the Blairek, 3,300 tons, the Tymeric, 5,228 tons and the 5,135-ton Swedish Anten.

The Anten radioed she had taken the Tymeric survivors aboard and was still afloat despite damage. The Tymeric apparently went down quickly.

The positions given by the ships indicated that they were close together, possibly in the same convoy. An English land station said the Blairek was torpedoed at latitude 56.42 north, longitude 19.14 west.

The Anten reported being torpedoed at latitude 56.57 north, longitude 16.17 west. She reported that she was "drifting east, requires immediate assistance."

The Tymeric was torpedoed also at latitude 56.57 north, longitude 16.17 west.

The Anten has been trading between England and Australia. She was built in 1920; her home port is Gothenburg.

The Blairek, out of Glasgow, traded between England and Canada before the war. She was built in 1925.

In the England-Australia run before the war, the Tymeric had recently been trading between England and South America. She was built in 1919 at Newcastle.

ROLL CALL PROGRESSES

The Red Cross Roll Call total passed the $1,300-mark today with the receipt of encouraging partial reports from Gettysburg and Biglerville. The first installment from Biglerville totaled $107.50 but collectors there say they expect donations in that town to equal or pass the 1939 total.

KENDLEHART WILL FILED

The will of the late J. William Kendlehart, Gettysburg, has been filed at the office of Register Winfield G. Horner naming two sons of the deceased, David D. and J. William Kendlehart, Jr., as executors. The estate is estimated at about $9,000 in real estate and personal property.

FARM IS SOLD

A deed on file this morning at the office of Recorder Winfield G. Horner at the court house discloses the sale of a 79-acre Menallen township farm along the Wensville-Bendersville road by William C. and Minnie M. Weaver, to Russell E. and James G. Miller, all of Menallen township.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. Guile W. Lefever, East Broadway, has been admitted as a patient to the Warner hospital. Discharges included Charles Miller, Gettysburg R. 1; Mrs. Charles F. Myers and infant, daughter, Marjorie Rebecca, Thurmont; John Pfeffer, Ralph Bower and Charles R. Clouser, all of Littlestown.

Training Starts Monday

Harrisburg, Nov. 23 (AP)—A small regiment of Pennsylvanians wound up their affairs today and spent their last week-end with the home folks before starting off for a year's hitch in the Army.

Volunteers, most of them, 770 physically-fit men between the ages of 21 and 36 and without dependents will start trickling in from farm homes and city homes soon after daybreak Monday for the first major step in their transition from civilians to soldiers.

They will report to their local draft boards in scores of cities and towns across the state and go

Grand Jurors Recommend That County Commissioners Plan Erection of New Jail

Completing a thorough inspection of Adams county's 130-year-old jail, the November grand jury Friday afternoon submitted a recommendation to the court that the county commissioners lay a foundation at once for a fund looking forward to a new building as soon as times and finances permit.

The recommendation concluded a lengthy, detailed written report submitted by the jury over the signature of Burgess C. A. Heiges, the foreman, in which the poor locks, old, soft walls, poor ventilation and other faults of the present building were listed and recommendations were made for temporary corrections in present situations.

The grand jury also took occasion to commend Sheriff and Mrs. Daniel J. Wolff "for the cleanliness of the place and for their conduct of the jail."

Judge Compliments Jurors

After reading the report, Judge W. C. Sheely complimented the grand jurors upon the thoroughness with which they had made their inspection and report. "Your recommendations apparently are well founded and very likely will be carried out," he observed before thanking the jurors and dismissing them "with the thanks of the court."

The jury's report called attention to small square holes in the walls of each cell placed there apparently for ventilating purposes. Prisoners easily could dig out around those openings, the report observed. Walls are soft and crumbling and very little work would be required to make openings through them, the report continued.

The jail roof needs repair and a new door was recommended at the rear after the present one was described as a fire hazard. Attention was called in the report to trees outside the jail yard but close to the wall and offering aid to prisoners seeking to escape. Ventilation in the jail was described as poor and new locks were recommended for some doors. A new concrete drain should be built along the outside of the wall of the cell block, the report also stated. An inspection of the building by an architect was recommended.

CEREMONY AT NEW OXFORD TO HONOR DRAFTEES

High School Band to Lead Procession on Monday

New Oxford residents and members of Draft Board No. 1 of Adams county are planning a "royal send-off" for the first two men to be inducted for a year of military training when the two volunteers report at the draft board headquarters in New Oxford square on Monday morning.

If the weather is good the 50-piece New Oxford high school band, state champion for three years in its class, will lead a procession from board headquarters to the Western Maryland railroad station along the Lincolnway east where exercises will be held.

The procession will move at 9 a. m. and the exercises will follow immediately after its arrival at the station.

The Rev. George E. Sheffer, New Oxford Lutheran pastor, will speak and the Rev. Fr. Robert D. Hartnett, rector of the Catholic church there, has been invited to take part in the ceremonies. Members of the Draft board will be on hand to give Richard P. Jacoby, 22, Mt. Rock, and Edward T. Noel, 23, McSherrystown, their final instructions.

Three Meet Here

When the train pulls out at 9:42 a. m., it will carry the two draftees to Gettysburg where they will take a bus at 11:30 o'clock to Harrisburg. There they will be met at the bus terminal by an officer who will take them to induction headquarters in that city where they will be submitted to further examinations before being accepted finally for a year of military training and service.

Board No. 2 will meet at its headquarters in the First National bank building on center square Monday morning but has planned no special ceremonies about the departure of the first volunteer from District No. 2, William S. Eskridge, 34, McKnightstown. He will ride by bus to Harrisburg with the two volunteers from District No. 1.

Registrants Delinquent

Members of Board No. 2 disclosed today that when they meet on Monday morning they will act in the cases of several registrants who are delinquent in sending back questionnaires or in appearing for physical examinations.

They also stated that they have received two requests from registrants who have been placed in Class 1-A for hearings before the board with regard to their classification. Class 1-A is that group available for immediate call.

Members of Board No. 1 held a long session Friday evening at New Oxford and completed classifications of about 50 men making their total of classified registrants about 125. They have ordered daily medical examinations next week.

Admiral Leahy Named Ambassador to France

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today through a secretary that he would appoint Admiral William D. Leahy, retired, now governor of Puerto Rico and former chief of naval operations, ambassador to France to succeed William C. Bullitt.

The secretary, William D. Hassett, said it had not been determined when Leahy's nomination would be submitted to the senate.

Hassett told reporters: "You know what the President thinks of his naval ability. What he thinks of him as a counselor on defense, and as a man of superb all-around ability. As you know, the President depended heavily on him as chief of naval operations."

Leahy will succeed Bullitt, who submitted his resignation on November 7. Hassett said he did not know whether the resignation had been accepted formally, but that it is "safe to assume it will be."

Mr. Roosevelt had offered the French post to General John J. Pershing, but the World War A.E.F. commander declined it on advice of his physicians.

There was no indication of who might succeed Leahy as governor of Puerto Rico nor was any word forthcoming as to Bullitt's future.

Admiral Leahy, 65 years old, is a native of Hampton, Ia., and a graduate of the U.S. Naval academy at Annapolis in 1897.

He attained the rank of rear admiral in 1927, serving as chief of the bureau of ordinance for four years. For the next two years he was commander of the destroyers scouting force, then became chief of the bureau of navigation. In 1936-37, he was a vice admiral, commanding ships of the battle force, then he was named admiral commanding the battle force.

He was chief of naval operations from 1937 until his retirement on Aug. 1, 1939. He was named governor of Puerto Rico early this year.

He served in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection and in the Boxer uprising and in 1912 was chief of staff of the Nicaraguan occupation. He held the same position in the Haitian campaign in 1916. He holds the Navy cross.

Late Flashes

Berlin, Nov. 23 (AP)—Premier Bela Tuka of Slovakia is coming to Berlin to sign for his country tomorrow as the sixth member of the axis military alliance, it was learned tonight.

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—A squadron of Spitfires today shot down seven Italian fighters and one German fighter in the Strait of Dover without loss to themselves, it was stated authoritatively, as axis raiders made two daylight thrusts at London.

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—British bombers made daylight attacks on German airdromes in the Netherlands yesterday and last night struck heavily at an airdrome near Bordeaux, France, a base for German air attacks on British shipping, an air ministry communique announced today.

4 DEFENDANTS INDICTED AND 2 FREED BY JURY

Desertion and Support Cases Occupy Court's Time Friday

Four defendants were indicted and two others freed by the November grand jury before it completed its deliberations on Friday afternoon. During and after grand jury sessions Friday afternoon hearings in desertion and non-support and surety of the peace cases were held before Judge W. C. Sheely.

J. Clayton Brumgard, Littlestown, was indicted for operating a horse-drawn wagon in Littlestown while he (Brumgard) was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Brumgard's case has been placed on the list for trial next week.

Other indictments were returned against James F. Donaldson, West Middle street, drunken driving; Roy Kuykendall, Gettysburg, indicted on one of two serious charges brought against him by Rita E. Miller, Gettysburg; and Curvin Dennis, Reading township, who had a true bill returned against him on one of the two serious counts brought by Stewart Myers, Gardeners R. 2.

The grand jury ignored a charge of malicious injury to growing crops and vegetables against Mr. and Mrs. Eddie W. Toddes, Cumberland township, and placed the costs of the proceedings on the prosecutor, William R. Black, Gettysburg R. D.

Suspended Sentence Revoked

The jury also failed to return a true bill against Charles Schuyler, Hamilton township, who had been charged with two serious offenses by Ethel Cool, Gettysburg R. 2. The costs were placed on the county.

After a hearing in which two fights in local garages during the last few weeks were described to the court, Maurice Fissel, Gettysburg, was sent to jail for 60 days. The court revoked a suspended sentence under which Fissel had been released a year ago and ordered him to jail. The case came before the court in a report from the county probation officer which brought a court rule on November 8 on Fissel to show cause why the suspended sentence should not be revoked.

Ralph Miller, Gettysburg, was involved in one of the fights and in the second Plus Krout, Gettysburg, suffered a fracture of a leg.

Following a hearing Denton Fair, Gettysburg, was ordered to pay a weekly support order of $2 which is to be increased to $3 weekly until arrearages under an old order are made up.

Before the court on a petition for a reduction in an old support order of $5 weekly, Ralph C. Deatrick, Gettysburg, won a new order of $3 weekly after a hearing. That order will stand until further court order, Judge Sheely ruled.

Curvin G. Wentz, Hanover, was ordered to pay $3 weekly for the support of his seven minor children on a support charge. He must post a $500 bond and pay the costs of the case.

William Curry, Spring Grove R. 3, formerly of Gettysburg, was ordered to post a $300 bond to keep the peace and was allowed a year in which to pay the costs of the case in which he was charged by his wife with surety of the peace. He had been in jail since November 2.

Edgar F. Shepherd, McKnightstown, was given a hearing on a desertion and non-support charge and was ordered to pay $2.50 weekly for the support of his two minor children. He must pay the costs and post a $500 bond.

David Jones, colored, Gettysburg, was placed on parole from the county jail and was allowed six months in which to pay the costs of his case.

Rumania Joins Axis; Martial Law in Turkey

Ankara Takes Action Due to "the General Political Situation"; Soldiers Ready

Ankara, Turkey, Nov. 23 (AP)—Sections of Turkey surrounding the strategic Dardanelles, which straddle the land route from Europe to the near East and Africa, were under martial law today because of "the general political situation."

The Turkish government ordered Corps General Ali Riza Artuokalin, commander of gendarmerie, to take charge of these districts last night only a short time after German Ambassador Franz von Papen returned from Germany, presumably with a virtual ultimatum that Turkey affiliate with the axis' "new European order."

Observers expressed belief that Von Papen might be carrying a near-ultimatum proposal that Turkey, a friend of Great Britain, agree to stand aside in the event Bulgarian and German troops move to help Italy down Greece, another British friend.

The Istanbul press reiterated statements that Turkey, while not looking for a fight, would fight if it seemed necessary.

The newspaper Ikdam mentioned that "no one is able to say that Russia would accept easily a German attack on Greece, which would carry German troops toward the Dardanelles. However, the consent of Russia would not signify that Turkey did not mean to defend herself with all her might."

(British military experts in London, speculating on future Axis plans, surmised that the next step might be a smash at the Suez canal and Egypt, with one jaw of a giant pincer, the German one, aimed at the Dardanelles through Bulgaria and Greece, and the other, the Italian one, aimed at Suez from Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's advance base in western Egypt.)

Greeks Seek Test of Second Albanian Line

Athens, Nov. 23 (AP)—Victory-cheered Greek cavalry and highland regiments, claiming the rout of six crack fascist divisions of at least 72,000 men, smashed beyond captured Koritza today for a quick test of Italy's second Albanian line of defense.

The high command told a nation in holiday mood that its army had left "not a single Italian soldier in Greek territory" and was driving Italian lines of resistance deeper into Albania from north of Koritza to the sea.

The Greeks reported taking prisoners by the hundreds as they pressed forward on the heels of their foe and said uncounted military stores were seized—guns and equipment dumped by the fleeing Italians in such quantity that it clogged the mountain roads.

(Dispatches from Bitolj, across the Yugoslav frontier, said battered Italian defenders of Koritza were fighting their way backward toward Pogradetz on Lake Ochrida, 20 miles north of Koritza. They said Pogradetz apparently was the left flank anchor of a new Italian defense line roughly 30 miles back from the frontier along the whole 100-mile battlefield.)

(Like Koritza, which Greek troops entered victoriously yesterday with bands blaring and soldiers marching over flower-strewn streets, Pogradetz guards the main road northwest past Elbasani to the port of Durazzo, across the Adriatic from Italy.)

(The British Broadcasting corporation carried a report last night from Belgrade that Pogradetz already had fallen to Greek advance units.)

DEATHS

7,500 ARE IDLE AT ALUMINUM COMPANY PLANT

Demand That "Irresponsible Worker" Be Fired

New Kensington, Pa., Nov. 23 (AP) — Government intervention today appeared to be the only hope of settling a CIO union strike over one man which left idle the 7,500 employees of the Aluminum Company of America plant here.

Officials of the company and two locals of the aluminum workers union were deadlocked on the strikers' sole announced demand—that the firm discharge a sheet mill worker who they said threatened a union official when he asked the worker to pay up about $12 in back dues.

The company, feeling that the demand was "not justified," declined to take any action and issued no further statement.

McDonald Investigating

That was the situation confronting E. C. McDonald, U. S. labor department conciliator dispatched here at the request of the national defense commission in an attempt to break the impasse.

While mills that had been busily turning out aluminum for airplanes and other defense items remained closed for the second day, union business agent John Haser notified the company that strikers had reaffirmed their strike vote and would not return to work "until you fire the one irresponsible worker."

The scene at New Kensington, a manufacturing town 30 miles from Pittsburgh, was quiet today. At union headquarters women made hot soup and coffee for the small groups of pickets. Strikers took advantage of the "holiday" to do their Thanksgiving or early Christmas shopping.

12-Year-Old Boy

To Be Guest of Army Division

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 23 (AP)—Twelve-year-old Jim Fort Rast, youngest person ever to volunteer for service in the Army's 8th division, was turned down for military duty—but he'll be the division's guest of honor Tuesday at the invitation of its commanding officer.

The youth, member of a Boy Scout troop at nearby Swansea, suggested in a letter to Major General Philip B. Peyton that he become a bugler to "leave a good man free to do battle unhampered."

He admitted he couldn't "toot a bugle now," but asserted he could learn. "I don't think I would be a burden," "not hardly," he added.

In a lengthy description of himself, the seventh-grade pupil pointed out that his "average for all school work so far is about 95," and added: "My mother says that she would be glad enough to let me go. I say that it may be all over before I'm old enough to join. Would you please drop me a card?"

Instead of a card, however, Jim received a letter from General Peyton explaining he could not be accepted for military service but praising him as having "the heart and the spirit of a soldier."

The general wrote further: "I would get a great kick out of a visit from you as my guest and as a guest of the 8th division. I want to know the youngest man who ever volunteered to serve in my command. I want you to see my soldiers, but more than that I want them to see you."

The club will meet Friday afternoon, December 6, at the home of Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, college campus, with Mrs. W. C. Waltemyer in charge of the program.

David Garfinkle, Jr., who is a second year student at Pennsylvania State college, will arrive Wednesday evening to spend the Thanksgiving vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Garfinkle, Chambersburg street.

The Women's Society of Christian Service will hold a thank-offering service at the Methodist church Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. As a part of the program the Girls' Missionary society will present a Chinese sketch in costume. Mary Jane Corbett is president of the girls' organization.

Miss Edna Saby, who is a member of the teaching staff at the Penn State Center, Hazleton, will arrive Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving recess with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Rasmus S. Saby, Carlisle street.

Dr. Rasmus S. Saby, of the Gettysburg college faculty, will broadcast from York, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the subject "Why Political Parties?"

Sues Bus Company For Contracting Illness

Pittsburgh, Nov. 23 (AP) — A passenger who contends she contracted pneumonia on a bus of the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., and her husband Friday filed suit in federal court for $50,000.

The passenger, Mrs. Margaret Rinehart of Hempfield township, Westmoreland county, declared in her suit that on November 23, 1938, on a trip from New York to Pittsburgh the windshield of a bus was accidentally broken. The driver, she declared, made several attempts to patch the hole with cardboard, but the bus became cold and she arrived in Pittsburgh chilled and ill.

She developed influenza, then pneumonia, and was ill abed for five months and subsequently was forced to make a trip to California to regain her health. Mrs. Rinehart said. She asserted doctor bills amounted to $957.50 and that she had been unable to work at her job that paid $10 weekly.

Mrs. Rinehart in her suit asked $35,000 and her husband, Robert Rinehart, $15,000.

Second Restaurant in Chain Damaged by Bomb

Cleveland, Nov. 23 (AP)—A bomb exploded early today at the rear of a restaurant operated by Stouffer Corp., injuring one of six employees in the establishment and rocking Playhouse Square in downtown Cleveland.

The blast, heard five miles away, was the second within 24 hours at a Stouffer restaurant. An explosion early yesterday damaged the front of the company's Philadelphia establishment.

Detective Sergeant George Smyth said the explosion here apparently was caused by a bomb made of black powder and attached to a time mechanism.

Louis Read, 24, a student manager, received head lacerations from flying debris.

Police said Vernon B. Stouffer, of Cleveland, corporation president, would confer with Safety Director Eliot Ness and quoted Stouffer as saying he had "vital information" which he would give only to Ness.

through the brief routine of being organized for the trip to the induction station serving their area.

Bands will play, flags will wave, speeches will be made in some cities to mark the momentous occasion—the first peace-time conscription in the nation's history.

None of Pennsylvania's 422 local draft boards is supplying more than three one-year volunteers or conscripts toward the state's quota for the first draft call this week, and some were not called upon for any men. The number for each district was based upon the total number of registrants, and the number of volunteers from the area already serving in some branch of the military service.

The steady parade of mechanics, farmhands, soda clerks, short-order cooks, bank tellers, jobless men—men from every walk of life—will continue through Friday, with a pause for observance of Pennsylvania's Thanksgiving day, Thursday.

Schedule of Inductions

On Monday, 100 will be drawn from southeastern Pennsylvania, 80 from central Pennsylvania, and 62 from western Pennsylvania, to Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, respectively.

The Philadelphia and Pittsburgh areas each will call in another 100 men on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, Philadelphia's quota will be cleaned up with the final group of 22, while the first delegation of 57 men from north-eastern Pennsylvania will report to Wilkes-Barre, the Altoona area's quota of 76 will be called in, and the Pittsburgh area will supply another batch of 41.

The Wilkes-Barre and Pittsburgh drafts for the first call will be completed with induction of 89 and 43 men, respectively, on Friday.

Each of those cities is the site of an induction station. There is where the actual transition from civilian to soldier takes place.

Taking no chances no physical misfits slipping by despite their physical examination at home, Army medical officers will give the prospective rookies a thorough going-over. A few may be sent home; a few "check-ups" held over for another draft call. Most of them will stand at attention for possibly the first time in their life, raise their right hand, and recite these words in unison:

Each Takes Oath

"I, John Doe, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America; that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all enemies whatsoever; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the officers appointed over me, according to the rules and articles of war."

They're in the Army then—but they're not soldiers. They will start to become soldiers at Fort Meade, Md., reception center for Pennsylvania and nearby states. That's where the Army will fit them out in Khaki, find out what jobs they can be expected to perform best, and fit them into the military mold.

About a month of preliminary training is expected before the draftees scatter to Army posts and camps, to "ride with the cavalry, march with the infantry, fight with the artillery."

Pleas Futile

Harrisburg, Nov. 23 (AP) — Letter-writing to state selective service headquarters to request deferment for draft registrants is futile, Governor James commented today.

"Of course, we are interested in every individual case, but the only thing possible for us to do with the letters that come addressed to headquarters is to inform the senders that they will have ample opportunity to present their cases to their local boards and that the very spirit of the selective service act precludes headquarters using its influence in any way whatsoever with the decisions of the local boards."

Brooklyn "Card Sharks" Get 2 Million in 10 Years

New York, Nov. 23 (AP) — Hymie Caplin, big-time boxing manager, today found himself enmeshed in what Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer called "the clean-up of a nationwide combine of card sharks" responsible for fleecing $2,000,000 from poker-playing businessmen in the last 10 years.

Caplin was arrested on a charge of grand larceny, specifically in connection with a "friendly game" at a Brooklyn (St. George) hotel in May, 1938, when a clothing manufacturer dropped $5,000. Caplin denied the charges.

O'Dwyer's assistant, John Rooney, said Caplin was only one of a large syndicate; that hundreds of victims were taken and re-taken for as much as $150,000 a victim; that 13 men and women already had been arrested, and that detectives are looking for "a number of others."

CIGAR STORE OWNER

VICTIM OF SUICIDE

Chambersburg, Nov. 23 — C. Floyd Rock, owner of the former Roderhaver Cigar store, Lincoln Way East and Second street, died Friday afternoon in the Chambersburg hospital, two hours after he was found unconscious in the cellar of the store with a bullet wound in his head. Police Chief H. S. Byers said the wound was self-inflicted. Rock was 52 years old.

Dr. S. D. Shull, Franklin county coroner, Friday afternoon issued a verdict of suicide in the death of the merchant and said there would not be an inquest.

A loaded revolver with one empty cartridge in the chamber lay between the legs of Rock who was found by his employee, Daniel W. Stoops, of 108 Lincoln Way West. Rock had fallen backwards at the bottom of the steps. Mrs. Stoops is the former Miss Lillian Dougherty, of Gettysburg.

Although still in a weakened condition, Rock had recovered from the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning suffered on the eve of Armistice Day while he and his wife were seated in their automobile along an infrequently traveled road fifteen miles northwest of Lewistown. Since then he had spent only short periods at the store.

Jenkins Finishes Lello in 2d Round

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Give Lew Jenkins a man he can hit and the skinny ex-cavalryman from Sweetwater, Texas, still looks like a great lightweight champion.

In the first defense of his 135-pound title since he stopped Lou Ambers last summer, Lew gave Pete Lello of Chicago the works in the Garden last night.

He knocked the Chicago boy down four times with sickening swipes to the jaw, and Referee Art Donovan didn't bother to count on the fourth occasion. He gathered the outclassed Lello in his arms to save his life. That was 2:37 of the second round.

Jenkins, looking lean and hungry at 131½ pounds, slapped Lello to the canvas with the first clean punch he landed in the second round. It was a powerful left hook to the chin, and it settled the fight.

Lello, who probably is wondering today what became of the Jenkins he knocked out in Chicago in 1939, managed to get back on his pins at the count of nine. But he ran into another barrage of lefts and rights that smacked him down again and again. He was helpless when Donovan finally took pity.

MUST GET A GOP SPONSOR OR GIVE UP STATE JOB

Co. Chairmen Request Retirement of Democrats

Harrisburg, Nov. 23 (AP)—Democrats still on the state payroll were given open notice by Governor James today to get a republican sponsor or yield their jobs to a republican.

Though not put in those words, the Governor noted that some 2,900 democrats and veteran republicans whose jobs were handed to them before his inauguration, January 17, 1939, still were on the payroll on October 1.

"We feel it is now our duty to replace democrats with republicans, in consistency with the efficiency of each office," he said.

Demands From Many Sections

The executive's statement followed visits this week by republican leaders from many parts of the state, who made it clear that now that the election is over they want the patronage which they openly declared was slow coming since the republicans returned to the capitol in 1939.

The number of "hold-overs" included, the governor pointed out, many technicians and specialists who had been on the state payroll for more than 20 years.

James said "Nobody can give you an idea" of "what the ultimate number of changes will be."

"Around 800 or 900 retentions have been requested by republican county chairmen," James said, "and that includes not only democrats but those on the payroll before" his administration.

James said that "over 7,000 already have been replaced" during 1939 and 1940. He publicly has claimed that he cut the total number of employees by more than 2,000, with a substantial saving in payroll.

The Revenue department, with a total of about 2,000 employees, already has "cleaned up" its hold-over personnel which failed to gain republican backing, Deputy Secretary Otto Messner said.

In the public utility commission, with more than 300 workers, predominantly democrats, Chairman John Higgins said he had received no orders, but would carry them out if received, to make wholesale dismissals.

James would not say that he had ordered cabinet members to get rid of all democrats—"it is not quite so absolute as that," he explained.

'Know Your Car,' Advises Automobile Dealer Here

To the many thousands who will visit this year's Auto Shows to see the 1941 cars, to check and compare values and ultimately decide what car they are going to buy, J. A. Phiel, local Dodge and Plymouth dealer, gives three words of advice: "Know your car."

The car delivered to you by your dealer will give you service and satisfaction in proportion to the intelligence with which you treat the car. Like any other piece of precision machinery, engines and gears and other working parts of cars are subject to the immutable laws of physics. Miracles have been accomplished in the reduction or elimination of friction and in resistance to its effects, but necessary lubrication cannot be indefinitely postponed without some compensating loss in efficiency.

OUT OF THE PAST

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

TEN YEARS AGO

Local Couple Wed by Groom's Uncle: David A. Tawney, son of Mrs. Julia Tawney, West Middle street, Gettysburg, and Miss Edith M. Weikert, daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. W. G. Weikert, Littlestown, were married Saturday at the parsonage of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Bloomsburg, by the Rev. Norman S. Wolf, an uncle of the bridegroom. The groom is employed at the Gettysburg furniture company. The couple returned to Gettysburg late Sunday.

Eden's Leg Is Broken in Game: Clair E. "Bud" Eden, York street, flashy end on Henry T. Bream's Gettysburg college Bullets, whose right leg was broken in two places between the knee and the ankle in the game with Muhlenberg at Allentown, on Monday was reported to be resting comfortably in the Allentown hospital where he was taken after the injury.

Dr. Francis Mason Poem Published: Appearing in the current issue of "The Atlantic Monthly," is a poem by Dr. Francis C. Mason, of the English department at Gettysburg college. The poem is entitled "Old Stone Church."

Sells Queensware: Miss Lily Dougherty, West High street, for many years associated with the Gettysburg department store, opened a queensware store in a new store room in the American Legion building.

Reveal Wedding in Hagerstown Nov. 8: Miss Grace Funt, daughter of Mrs. Grant Funt, Orrtanna, and Charles Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Huff, near Heidlersburg, were married at Hagerstown, November 8, by the Rev. J. S. Simpson, pastor of a Lutheran church. They were attended by the bride's mother. Mr. Huff is employed at the furniture factory here. For the present, the couple will reside at Orrtanna.

Auto Club Opened on Square: The new office of the Gettysburg automobile club of Adams county was opened in the Weaver building, center square, Saturday. The office, which will be used by Miss Helen Spangler, secretary of the local motor club, is complete in every respect.

Sells Haberdashery: Fred L. Biehl, who was graduated from Gettysburg college in 1930, has taken space in Keiper Brothers' store, center square, and will sell haberdashery there.

Miss L. M. Smick and Wilbur Baker Wed January 11: Announcement was made on Friday of the marriage in Baltimore January 11 of Miss Loretta M. Smick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Smick, Baltimore street, and H. Wilbur Baker, Gettysburg, proprietor of Baker's battery service, Baltimore street. The bride is the teacher at the Round Top school. Mr. Baker, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Baker, near Gettysburg, attended the New York electrical school and has been in the radio business here for nine years.

High School Presents Play: The three-act comedy "Skidding," presented by the Gettysburg high school dramatic club in the high school auditorium Friday evening, pleased a large audience.

Miss Josephine Codori and J. Donald Swope, Jr., displayed exceptional histrionic ability in the leading parts while the other members of the cast gave clever interpretations of their roles. Credit for the success of the play is due to Miss Ruth McIlhenny and Miss Ruth Scott, teachers in the English department.

Besides the principals, the following were in the cast: Miss Eleanor Zinn, Louise Hartzell, Florence Muselman and Margaret Waters; Wilbur King, Kermit Harbaugh, Eddie Hudson and Harold Dunkleberger.

David Blocher Dies: Death stalked through the rank of Gettysburg's young merchants for the second time in two weeks and on Saturday morning claimed David Blocher, 33, proprietor of Blocher's jewelry store, Chambersburg street.

Gives Tea for Guest of Honor on Friday: Roses, chrysanthemums and calendulas, in shades of yellow, orange and bronze, and the mellow glow of many lighted candles added color to the atmosphere of the rooms in which Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel received her guests Friday afternoon when she entertained at tea in honor of Mrs. Edward H. Sehr, of Washington, D. C.

Receiving with Mrs. Rosenstengel and her honor guest was Mrs. Charles Sehr, of Baltimore. The ladies who poured were Mrs. Herbert C. Alleman, Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, Mrs. Robert Marshall and Mrs. Charles Sanders and they were assisted in the dining room by Mrs. Elton Boyer, Mrs. John G. Glenn, Mrs. Bertram H. Salzer and Mrs. Clyde Stover.

The hostess was assisted in the reception rooms by Mrs. Thomas L. Cline, Mrs. Frank B. Clutz, Miss Ella Gilliland and Mrs. John D. Keith.

Observe Anniversary of Founding of National Cemetery by Lincoln: Exercises marked the sixty-seventh anniversary of the dedication of the national cemetery and the delivery of Lincoln's address were held Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The exercises in the cemetery at 1 o'clock showed increased interest over last year. A group of members of the Sons of Veterans and other citizens gathered at the national monument.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THINK IT OVER

MOST of the unkind things said are said—without thinking. Most of our rash deeds result for the same reason. And many of our most serious mistakes. It never does any harm to think things over before coming to a decision.

What a familiar phrase is that one: "I never thought of that!" All of our expressions should be thought out—both sides of a question examined, the result of an act well considered, or its bearing upon our own reputation, before giving these expressions in word or act.

People who think things over are just as liable to make mistakes as those who do not, but such mistakes are not liable to be so serious. You recall that old adage, "Look before you leap," which is but another way of saying, Think Before You Act. Many a blunder has been avoided by thinking a thing over before any move has been made.

A goodly portion of us are creatures of impulse. We act upon the inspiration of the moment. In an emergency, often, this is a good thing, but it is not a good thing as a rule. Great problems are solved by thinking them over, weighing the facts in the case, and considering all sides.

Perhaps our greatest heritage is our ability to think. Thinking sets the entire course of our lives. Tragedy walks the way of the one who fails to think, who fails to take advantage of this right to think.

After you have read a book, think it over. Examine that mind of yours. See what you have gained. After a stimulating talk with someone else, think over that conversation. Try to recall every gain from it.

Be proud of the fact that you can think for yourself—independently, and with the full right to hold your opinions, no matter how much they may be opposed. A rich and independent mind is a rare possession. It can take you to any height within your ability to fulfill its demands. Think this over!

JUST FOLKS

SEASON'S CLOSE

Flurry of snow from a gray grim sky,
Cold and bitter the wind that blows;
No hardy son of the moors am I
And here I come to the season's close.

I'll take my golf in a green clime,
When the grass is green and the birds a-wing,
But I will not play through the winter time
When the earth is hard and the breezes sting.

Boy, on my locker turn the lock,
I'm done with the game till the sun gets high.
Give winter golf to a tougher stock.
No hardy son of the moors am I.

The Literary Guidepost

By John Selby

A collection of very small books for Christmas—A NUMBER of little books intended for Christmas giving have collected on this groaning desk, the best (and also the largest) being Charles Lee's "An Almanac of Reading."

Mr. Lee used to be literary critic on the Boston Herald, and one of this writer's most amusing experiences was a considerable difference of opinion with him on the merit of Thomas Mann's "The Betroved Returns." Now Mr. Lee has gone to the Philadelphia Record and there, we hope, we may agree just as pleasantly. This because of his "An Almanac of Reading." Mr. Lee has the same passion for reading that some of us have for music. He loves the people from literature, and can interest the casual reader in them. His new book is a condensation of his own and other men's enthusiasm, arranged by season and by month. The idea is to set against each month the reading that might be most appropriate; for saucy there are some quizzes, some birthday lists and a good deal of light-hearted wisdom. (Coward-McCann; 51c).

Daphne Du Maurier's "Happy Christmas" is a bitter little dose. It is, indeed, the most cutting piece of prose she ever wrote—the story of how two Jewish refugees were dumped into an English home on Christmas Eve, and what smugness and self-complacency and ignorance did to them. It should be read well in advance of Christmas, for the good of the soul. (Doubleday, Doran; 75 cents).

This Christmas Eleanor Roosevelt has written the next book in size, and she calls it only "Christmas." It is a little allegory using Holland for its locale and a mother and child and a Nazi for her characters. Mrs. Roosevelt has always had the ability to reduce complicated concepts to simple phrases, and this she does in "Christmas." Simple phrases often become poetry without help from their writer, and this too has happened in Mrs. Roosevelt's book. (Knopf; 50 cents).

And Elizabeth Morrow comes along with the smallest small book of all, designed likewise for Christmas. "The Rabbit's Nest" talks about giving presents, but is not a Christmas story in the strict meaning of the term. This is a story with a moral, and it concerns presents which are not appropriate, and it is told with all the charm that made Mrs. Morrow's "A Pint of Judgment" and "The Painted Pig" popular. Finally, it has nothing to do with wars or ideologies, only with happy family life. Perhaps that is a major virtue. (Macmillan; 50 cents).

Did You Ever Know That . . .

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By Medora Field

YESTERDAY: First Aunt Maggie was murdered. Then it was found impossible either to telephone the police, or to go for them, because of a blinding storm and the fact that someone had let the air out of all the tires on all the cars. And now Sally has left Bill, her husband, on guard and has gone to her room and slept. But neither she nor the other guests at what had been intended as a quiet houseparty have had much rest. A murderer is, they are convinced, still in the house.

Chapter 16
NO ANSWER

WHEN I awakened at a little after eight o'clock in the morning I discovered that the fastening of one of the window blinds had come loose in the night.

This was, no doubt, responsible for the cold draft which had blown across me in my dream, but I still had an uncomfortable feeling that the secret of the hidden room might be somewhere right under my nose. After all, this was the room in which the warning message had been left.

But a hurried survey revealed no clue. Later, I would make a more thorough examination. Just now I could not hurry fast enough with my bathing and dressing, so anxiously was I for the comfort of Bill's nearness, his reassurance that daylight meant a straightening out of at least some of our difficulties.

The rain had stopped in the night, but the sky was leaden, as though a downpour might begin at any moment. On the way downstairs I remembered the matches I had lost the night before somewhere near the landing. They were easy enough to find this morning but, except for the fact that I had automatically looked for them along the way, I should have passed unnoticed a small scrap of rose-colored taffeta which evidently had been snagged off by a nail projecting from one of the rounds supporting the stair rail. Of course, the nail should not have been there in the first place, and it was easy to see that it had been used in a crude attempt to repair a split in one of the delicate rounds.

"Some of Thomas's work," I told myself, with a mental note to have the repair looked after properly. Thomas had been my grand-mother's gardener and general handy man for many years, and as she had grown older he had grown a bit lively. He and Lindy, his wife, had lived in the servants' quarters back of the house until a month or so ago, when they had moved to a tenant house about a quarter of a mile distant.

It occurred to me now that I might question Thomas about the secret room.

Thinking of all this, I picked up the small piece of silk as any housewife would. I noticed that tiny feathers or down clung to the cloth and wondered idly where such a scrap could have come from. Then I remembered that Alice had been wearing a rose quilted robe the night before.

But Alice had said she went only to the head of the stairs.

I stuffed the matches and the bit of silk into a pocket of my red cardigan and hurried on to the dining room. Bill, usually almost too bright and cheerful in the mornings, now looked like death warmed over. The knot on his head had gone down, but the discoloration had spread to the area around his eye.

Nobody else appeared to be up and Bill explained that Andrew had set out on foot for Roswell, "to spread the alarm," and also to try to stir up an electrician and a wrecker for the cars.

"Of course, it's Sunday, and everything will probably be shut up in Roswell," he added. "But, anyway, Andrew can at least find a telephone."

"I'm glad it is Sunday," I said. "Maybe, we can get everything cleared up today and there won't be a lot of wild headlines in the papers."

"Of course, there's the radio," Bill reminded me. "Don't they have news broadcasts on Sunday?"

Red Light
What little appetite I had disappeared as I followed this gloomy trail of thought, but at Bill's insistence I forced down toast and coffee. At the same time I related to him the reason for my trip downstairs in the small hours of the morning.

Neither Kirk nor I had mentioned to Bill the fact that the sheet over Aunt Maggie had been disturbed. I had purposely omitted discussing it and Kirk, I am sure, had refrained out of consideration for me.

This ghoully detail now impressed Bill where he might otherwise have been inclined to try to explain away my theory that the secret room was in some way connected with Aunt Maggie's death. "It's possible you are right," he admitted. "God knows there must be some reason back of it all. But why on earth didn't you let me go on this little research expedition?"

"I was trying to let you get some sleep," I said. "Besides, it all seemed so crazy. I didn't know what you would say. My consideration didn't work out exactly as it should have. But naturally, I didn't expect you to be running into gorillas or to have mirrors rise up and sock you on the head."

Bessie padded in, bringing fresh toast. "Funny to me," she grumbled,

"looking glasses jumpin' down off the wall all by theirself and hittin' folks. Somethin' evil in this here house. Miss Sally, we goin' back to town today, ain't we?"

Bill and I both said we hoped so and tried to explain that Bill had knocked against the mirror and that the fastening was no doubt ready to give way. But Bessie remained firm in her conviction. "Somethin' evil in this here house," she reiterated, as she went back to the kitchen.

Bill was as much in the dark as I with regard to the red light and inclined to think I had imagined it. I was none too sure myself, and yet why would I pick out a red light to imagine?

"The trees are thinner there," I pointed out. "It's that long sweep of lawn with the cherry laurel hedge and the trees and that curve of the road just beyond. It could have been the tailight of a car."

"But all the cars are in the back yard, just as they were last night," said Bill. "All of 'em with flat tires. And both Andrew and I tried to start the station wagon this morning. Anyway, no car could have negotiated that mud."

"Perhaps it was a car from the outside."

"A car that turned around and went back? I get you," said Bill. "but why?"

"You tell me why," I suggested. "Look here," said Bill suddenly, "did you have any crazy relatives?"

"All of them are more or less crazy, according to what you've always seemed to think," I answered, with a feeble attempt at lightness.

"No, I mean would any of them be likely to be shut up here in this so-called secret room? You know how people sometimes are about admitting such things. Try to hide the afflicted one away."

"Well, I never heard of anything of the sort," I said. "Of course, Grandmother did die rather suddenly. There wasn't any chance for her to tell anybody anything. That is, of course, if there was anything to tell."

"I only thought of it as a possible explanation," Bill said.

Cryptic Paper

"Speaking of crazy relatives," I said slowly, "that makes me wonder . . . There was some sort of jingle set aside in Aunt Maggie's papers when I came out here yesterday. When I didn't see it last night, I thought she had put it away. Do you suppose—"

"The clue, you mean?" asked Bill, his face brightening. "What did it say?"

"That's the trouble. I can't remember. It was all a mixed-up jumble, something about hands and feet and steps. I thought Aunt Maggie had set it aside as a curiosity. You don't suppose it was a reducing exercise?"

"I don't think they bothered very much about such things back in those days," said Bill. "Sure you can't make head or tail of it?"

I shook my head hopelessly. "Anyway, it may not have been the clue. I'll look in Aunt Maggie's papers. But first I want to speak to Bessie."

"And I want a shave and a bath," said Bill.

In the kitchen I tactfully broached the subject of the secret room. But I got exactly nowhere. Bessie swore she had never heard of any secret room in the house, nor had she heard any sort of remark at any time which might indicate an unseemly interest on the part of anyone else, white or black.

A knock sounded on the kitchen door just as I was leaving, and when Bessie opened it Thomas came shuffling in, hat in hand.

"Mornin', Miss Bessie," I heard him say, and then as he caught sight of me, "Mornin', Miss Sally. I come to see if I could help Andrew and Bessie some, seein' as how Lindy couldn't come. Andrew come over to my house Friday and say you want Lindy to help, but she ain't home. She gone to visit her sick aunt."

Like all his people, whatever their usual disregard of the broad "a," Thomas pronounced it a'hnt. "Yes'm, her a'hnt is sick."

"I hope she isn't very sick," I said absently. "When did Lindy go?"

Thomas stuttered and seemed unable to remember. "Day before yesterday, I think it was, Miss Sally. Yes'm, she went day before yesterday." While this hesitation struck me as a little odd, I decided that perhaps Lindy had gone after Andrew's visit and that Thomas was embarrassed by the fact.

"Thomas," I said, "have you ever heard of a secret room at Wisteria Hall?"

"Have I ever heard of what, Miss Sally?"

"A secret room," I repeated, knowing very well he had understood me the first time. "Think, Thomas."

"I don't rightly remember, Miss Sally. Seems as how I did hear your gran'ma say somethin' 'bout one."

LAWRENCE AND KELLY STAY OUT OF GUFFEY MEET

Party Chief Says He Is for Hands-off Policy

Harrisburg, Nov. 23 (AP)—Democratic members of the 1941 legislature were left with a free hand today to choose whomever they like, for speaker of the democratic-controlled house and party floor leader in the republican-dominated senate.

U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, party chieftain by virtue of his second successful bid for a six-year term in Washington and with a hold on federal patronage, announced last night he intended to follow a hands-off policy in the matter.

Guffey called the new members of the legislature together to tell them he "has no candidate for speaker, floor leader, or for clerk of the house, but the best man possible should be in each office."

Lawrence and Kelly Absent
David L. Lawrence, western Pennsylvania leader, and John B. Kelly, Philadelphia chief, chose to remain away for other engagements.

Guffey told the legislators he expected their record in the 1941 assembly to be the keynote of the 1942 gubernatorial campaign.

He recommended they investigate "thoroughly" a few "of the situations on capitol hill which have been giving forth an unmistakable aroma."

The Senator's Last Term
The senator announced this campaign was his last, personally; that he never would seek public office again.

"I have made my last campaign as a candidate for office but I shall not rest until we have restored Pennsylvania's government to the working people who created it, wealth and greatness," he declared. Guffey declared against proportional representation—a plan submitted to the legislature in the past as part of a new city charter for Philadelphia. It would base the number of councilmanic places on the basis of population.

He also said he was against "Absentee voting," but did not explain why he mentioned this.

Federal Patronage Method
He also defined how federal patronage would be handled from now on:

"I want to assure Meredith Meyers, our state chairman, that I intend to recognize and support him without limitation or reservation and that so far as any matters of patronage are concerned, I shall recognize all duly-elected county chairmen through Meredith Meyers."

Leo A. Achtermann, veteran democratic representative from Monroe county, announced he avowedly was a candidate for speaker. Others mentioned for the place include Elmer J. Kilroy, Philadelphia; Anthony J. Gerald, Allegheny; Albert W. O'Connor, Cambria; Charles Melchiorre, Philadelphia; John Powers, Allegheny; John Stank, Northumberland; Harry O'Neill, Lackawanna; Matthew Welsh, Fayette, and James T. Lovett, Westmoreland. All have served several sessions.

No. 166 — Two Additional Soldiers of the Revolution

IF the John Weikert, Jr., whose grave is to be found in Christ Reformed churchyard, is the man who served in the militia at Camp Security, as a matter of course he is given the honored rating of "Soldier of the Revolution." As we said last week, however, the Pennsylvania Archives offers no clue as to whether it was John Andrew Weikert, Sr., or John Weikert, Jr., who served at Camp Security. This being the case we have given as much material as possible pertaining to both the father and son. We continue our notes on this family.

John Weikert, Jr., and his wife Ann Mariah Weikert were the parents of the following children:
1. Hannah Weikert, born March 11, 1789, died July 7, 1810.
2. Barbara Weikert, born May 21, 1791, died April 3, 1793.
3. Mariah C. Weikert, born October 25, 1793, died —
4. Martha Weikert, born July 27, 1808, died September 15, 1813.

Buried in Christ Reformed cemetery are the following additional members of the Weikert family:

1. "Peter Weikert" born May 5, 1795 | died December 26, 1872 | aged 77 years.
Note: We do not know just where this man fits on the family tree.

2. "Catharine" wife of Peter Weikert | born April 21, 1809 | died October 6, 1898 | aged 80 years.
Note: Evidently the wife of the Peter Weikert mentioned above.

3. "Matilda" wife of Henry Weikert, Sr., and daughter of Abraham C. Eckert | died October 5, 1879 | aged 62 years 11 months.
Note: The inscription appears to be self-explanatory, and except for the fact that we do not know where to place Henry Weikert, Sr., on the family tree, is very complete.

4. "John Weikert" | died October 24, 1887 | aged 73 years 8 months.
Note: We know nothing pertaining to this man.

5. "Lydia" wife of John Weikert | died November 1, 1883 | aged 83 years.

Note: The wife of the John Weikert mentioned above.

6. "Hanna Weikert" | born March 11, 1789 | died July 7, 1810.
Note: A daughter of John Weikert, Jr., thought to be a soldier of the Revolution, and his wife, Anna Mariah Weikert.

THE next soldier on our list whose grave is to be found in Christ Reformed church cemetery, is one John Michael Kuntz. The inscription, what we can read of it, at the stone marking the graves of this man and his wife is as follows:

"John Michael Kuntz
died 1795
Catharine Kuntz
died 1772."

There is quite a bit more to this inscription but, due to the ravages of time, it is impossible to decipher the remainder.

In the Pennsylvania Archives (Sixth Series—Volume 2—Page 431) in "A return of Capt. Michael Hahn's Company of Militia of the first Battalion commanded by Col. Miller, October 12, 1780," listed among the first privates we find Johann (John) M. Kuntz.

We regret that we know nothing further regarding this soldier or his family. A search of all available records has, thus far,

FRESH
Whitman's
Candies
FABER'S
Center Square

yielded not a single clue. If any of our readers could give any help, the same would be greatly appreciated.

THE next soldier of the Revolution whose grave is to be found in Christ Reformed cemetery is a member of the Young family. As you may remember we mentioned this family in previous columns, and gave the few available facts we were able to obtain regarding them. The inscription from the stone marking the graves of John Young and his wife are as follows:

"Sacred to the memory
of John Young
born December 17, 1760
Departed this life April 21, 1844
Aged 84 years 4 months.

Also his wife
Catharine Young
born February 4, 1776
died December 13, 1859
Aged 84 years, 10 mo., 4 days."
We will continue our notes on this family next week.

A NEW RACKET

Uniontown, Pa. (AP)—A truck driver told authorities he stopped when he saw two boys carrying an apparently injured companion along a rural road. He helped move the "casualty" into his truck, and the two boys left with a wave and a smile. "I started for a doctor's but the boy got well immediately," reported the trucker. "Then he told me he just had to get to Belle Vernon to meet his sister on her first day at school."

TEMPLE "CHARGES" SETTLED

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 (AP)—Charges relating to the administration of Temple university were "settled" today as far as the board of trustees was concerned. The board last night unanimously adopted a committee report which found "no truth" in various assertions made since three veteran members were not reelected in September. The report absolved three persons who had figured prominently in the charges. They are Dr. William Parkinson, dean of the medical school; and Charles G. Erny and Albert M. Greenfield, trustees. The members who failed of reelection were the Rev. John A. MacCallum, Edward G. Budd and Ernest T. Trigg.

ON THE AISLE

 AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE
 Monday and Tuesday — "CAPTAIN CAUTION"
 Wednesday — "MEN AGAINST THE SKY" (Midnight show Wednesday)
 — Boris Karloff in "BEFORE I HANG"
 Thursday — "RHYTHM ON THE RIVER" (Continuous shows from 12:45 p. m.)
 Friday and Saturday — "THE MARK OF ZORRO"

THE roaring action of battles on the high seas, the thrilling, smashing action of two vessels fighting for supremacy is unfolded with terrific impact and amazing realism in Hal Roach's "Captain Caution," the sweeping sea epic based on Kenneth Roberts' best seller.

The scope of sweeping action on the screen has always been limited because of the versatility of the camera, and never has this been more forcefully proved than in the realistic sequences which are unraveled in "Captain Caution." But flaming action is not the only highlight in this new adventure romance. Starred in the film are Victor Mature and Louise Platt, and in prominent supporting roles are such favorites as Leo Carrillo, Bruce Cabot, Vivienne Osborne, Robert Barratt and Miles Mander.

moulian. Principals: Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell (shown above) and Basil Rathbone, Gale Sondergaard, Eugene Pallette, J. Edward Bromberg, Montague Love, Janet Beecher.

In old Spanish Los Angeles, dashing Diego arrives from Madrid to learn his father has been ousted as alcade and the peons and caballeros are being oppressed by the successor. So you know what he does, don't you? He pretends to be an idle fop, to his vigorous old father's shame, but at night gallops about the countryside in cloak and mask and plays Robin Hood.

He's an agile, dextrous fellow, this oppression-hating Zorro, and Tyrone does well by him. Darnell gets prettier and Pallette as the padre hauls in the laughs.

There's good chase stuff, with Ty not quite as acrobatic as the late Doug Fairbanks in the same role, but very good indeed in a spectacular duel with Rathbone.

MOVIES coming to the Majestic during the week of December 2 follow
 Monday and Tuesday—"Melody Ranch," with Gene Autry and Jimmy Durante.
 Wednesday—"Angels Over Broadway," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. and Rita Hayworth.

Thursday—"Public Debutante No. 1," with George Murphy and Brenda Joyce.
 Friday and Saturday—"Arise, My Love," with Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland.

A NEW KIND OF MUSIC YOUR OWN PIANO

HAMMOND Solovox

Think of it! You play the melody with your right hand on the Solovox . . . as you play piano with your left hand. Thus, you add beautiful, sustained tones of the Solovox—effects of "cello, violin, trumpet, saxophone—to your piano accompaniment!

Easy to play? Yes—even a child can use the Solovox. It's easily attached to any piano. It does not interfere with the normal use or with the tone of the piano.

Here—and try—the Solovox, the newest achievement by the makers of the famous Hammond Organ and the Hammond Novachord.
